EXPERIENCE

BUSINESS ANALYST @ AMERICAN EXPRESS

January 2017 – Present

I was placed to complete my second internship at American Express where I am working in the GCST JAPA (Global Customer Services Technology - Japan, Asia Pacific & Australia) team.

SOFTWARE DEVELOPER @ APPLIANCES ONLINE

June 2015 – December 2016

As part of the BIT co-op scholarship I received, I'm asked to work at two of the program's sponsors for 6 months each. I worked in the development team, using C#, Node.js, JavaScript and AngularJS. After I completed the internship I was offered a permanent position in the development team and continued to work at Appliances Online. My role consisted of completing tasks prioritised on the team's agile job board. I also collaborated between various stakeholders to ensure the task was completed adequately for the customer.

E-COMMERCE DEVELOPER @ BLUE ISLAND PRESS

June 2013 – Present

I am the tech-guru at this small business. I built an e-commerce system and retail website that is used by Blue Island Press's wholesale customers and employees. I am responsible for maintaining the e-commerce system and ensuring that online business can commence, whilst adding new features to make the buying process more convenient for customers.

ABOUT ME

I'm an ADD type who will impress you with work that I'm passionate about. I'm a creative problem solver at heart. When I'm passionate about something or love what I'm working on, I deliver strong results.

I'm a massive fan of programming as it's a great platform for creative problem solving. I generally have an informal and relaxed attitude, but when the pressure is on I'll become laser focused on the task at hand. Day to day though, I love to have a laugh and don't take myself too seriously.
